

Since the International Telecommunications Union has dropped the requirement for the code test for Amateur Radio Operators to earn high frequency privileges The United States should follow the example of other countries and eliminate the code test requirement to get the General Class and Amateur Extra Class High Frequency privileges.

I do feel the code areas on the band plans should be left intact for those who wish to use morse code.